

LEH355/PHI370 – LEGAL REASONING – FALL 2017 – FINAL – DUE DEC 13

No late assignments are accepted.

The final assignment should be 10-15 page long and should contain the following sections:

- (a) The controversy and the question(s) under dispute.
- (b) The position you endorse in response to the question(s) under dispute.
- (c) Previous court decisions and why they are (or are not) useful to decide the case.
- (d) Your two/three best arguments in support of the position you endorse.
- (e) The best objections against each of the arguments in (d).
- (f) The two/three best arguments in support of the position opposite to yours.
- (g) Your best responses to each of the objections in (e), i.e. why those objections fail.
- (h) Your best responses to each of the arguments in (f), i.e. why those arguments fail.
- (i) Summary and conclusion.

NB: Keep in mind that you are providing legal arguments here, not arguments based on your own views about politics and the common good. Your arguments should be grounded in the US Constitution, the tools of judicial interpretation (e.g. text, tradition, history, precedent, purpose and consequence). If the dispute is about the facts, your arguments should be based on the evidence presented in court.
